HERB J. VOS, 44, DIES SUDDENLY OF HEART ATTACK

Community Mourns Passing of Antioch Business Man;
Was Civic Leader

SIX HUNDRED GRIEVE AT IMPRESSIVE RITES

Every resident of Antioch bowed to the stunning blow delivered the community Sunday afternoon unable to realize that death had claimed Herbert J. Vos until requiescat was pronounced yesterday at services in St. Peter's Catholic church.

Mr. Vos, widely known Antioch lumberman, former village trustee, and prominent in civic affairs of the region for the last 20 years, died suddenly at his home, 698 Main street, about three o'clock Sunday afternoon of a heart attack. He had attended church in the morning and had shown no signs of the fatal attack.

Mr. Vos, who was born in Burlington, Wisconsin, in 1892, would have celebrated his 45th birthday anniversary Monday, March 1st. He was a son of Henry J. and Josephine Vos, and received his education in the city of his birth where he spent his early youth. On June 15, 1915, he was married to Nelle McCarthy, also of Burlington.

In Antioch Since 1917

Since he first came to Antioch on April 17th, 1917, Mr. Vos has been engaged in the lumber and coal business, starting as a partner of the late Conrad Buschman. Some years later he bought his partner's interest and formed his own company, The Antioch Lumber & Coal Company, which was incorporated and which he served as president until his death. His company absorbed the H. R. Adams Lumber company of Antioch following the death of Horace R. Adams.

Because of his deep interest in the promotion and development of the Lakes Region, Mr. Vos was considered the sparkplug for his constant activities and friendly interest in every move for civic betterment of Antioch. For 13 years he served as a member of the village board of trustees, declining to run for re-election two years ago. He was a prime mover in building up the Lakes Region as the ideal summer playground in Chicagoland.

Held Many Offices

Other offices which claimed part of his intensely busy life up to his death were: Secretary of the Chain O' Lakes country club; Secretary of the Buckley Sand & Gravel Co.; President of the Lake County Lumberman's association; President of the Antioch Dairy company; Director of the First National Bank of Antioch; Director of the Antioch Milling company; Trustee of St. Peter's Catholic church.

Mr. Vos was a fourth degree member of the Knights of Columbus of the Bishop Hennrich Council in Milwaukee and a third degree member of the Burlington Council. He was also a member of the Waukegan Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

Mons. Frawley Gives Eulogy

Requiem was held in St. Peter's church at 10 o'clock before a large gathering of friends and acquaintances. Burial was in the Burlington cemetery where a cortege two miles long escorted the departed friend.

Following the impressive rites, Monsignor Daniel J. Frawley, Antioch priest at the time of the erection of the beautiful Catholic church, pronounced an inspiring eulogy to the life of his departed friend. Mr. Vos, it was recalled, was the first cash donor toward the building fund for the Antioch $250,000 edifice. That was eight years ago. Since leaving the Antioch parish, the Rev. Frawley was elevated to the dignity of a Monsignor.

Honorary pall bearers, Knights of the fourth degree K. of C., were: Leo Warren, Wm. Rose, Henry Heiderman, Frank Tobin, Frank Christian, Lawrence Murphy, all of Burlington. Active pallbearers were headed by Mayor George B. Bartlett and others who served with Mr. Vos as members of the board of trustees, including Village Clerk Roy L. Murrie, Trustees James Stearns, Nason E. Sibley, Charles Lux and Fred Hawkins.

Besides his mother and widow, Mr. Vos is survived by two children, Bill, 5, and Jane Ellen, 11; two brothers in Antioch, Edmund and Cletus; Aloys of Kansasville, Wis.; Roman of Hammond, Ind.; and three sisters, Marie Szydlowski of Burlington, Elizabeth Oldenberg of Burlington and Lucille Friesen of Neenah, Wis.

An esteemed citizen and friend has left Antioch, but the influence of his tireless efforts to public betterment remain as an example to those who were privileged to know and to work with him.

ANTIOCH FORUM TO HEAR PETTY

School Supt. to Discuss Education at High School
PTA Meeting, Mar. 5

County Superintendent of Schools William C. Petty of Antioch will be the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Antioch Township high school forum which will be held Friday, March 5, it was announced this morning by Principal L. O. Bright. Superintendent Petty has been making several appearances in the county discussing the need for legislative action by the state to provide equal opportunity for all the children of every section of the state. In a recent appearance before the Antioch Men's Civic club, Petty revealed how the state is shirking its duty to the school children and why there exist inequalities for education in Illinois.

The program will also include a style show of garments fashioned by members of the high school home economics classes in sewing and musical selections by the Sequoit boys' glee club.

Sequoia Seniors Rehearse Class Play, "Guess Again"

Senior members of Antioch Township high school went into rehearsal this week to present their class play, "Guess Again," Thursday and Friday nights, April 1 and 2.

According to advance notices it is a three act comedy written by Glenn Hughes and involved a strange entanglement of English peers, movie stars and college heroes. The setting is in a California hotel, near the movie capitol.

There will be two complete casts of characters for the two nights with the following seniors expecting to take part:

Don Minto, Roger Thill, Albert Drecoll, A. Griffin, Robert Madsen, Otto Hanke, R. Griffin, C. Rosenstock, Warren Sheehan, W. Griffin, C. McCormack, H. Groebli, Ted Larson, A. Houghton, Phillis Mount, Elvera Barth, Dorothy Meyer, Mildred McCormick, A. Dalgard, Bertha Petersen, Val Winton, V. Norman, Doris Ferris, Jean Hughes, Leone Buchta, C. Sherwood, J. Allner.

Talcott, Dailey Win Waukegan Nominations for Mayor's Office

Mayor Mancel Talcott, seeking his second term as Waukegan governmental head, was an easy winner for the Republican nomination at the primary Tuesday with Leo Dailey named the Democratic nominee in the lopsided victory in his party.

Less than one-third of the city's voting population scratched ballots at the polls in one of the quietest county seat elections on record. Other nominees on the GOP ticket are J. P. Wyllie, former city clerk, for clerk; and Edward Holmberg, city treasurer.

In addition to Dailey, other Democrats to win the party nomination are City Clerk Frank G. Wallin for re-election and Emmett McShane for city treasurer.

QUIET CONTROLS ASPIRANTS FOR VILLAGE OFFICE

No Petitions out but Electors
Expect Mayor Bartlett,
Incumbents to Run

All is quiet on the village election front with no petitions yet in circulation and no whisperings among prospective candidates aired.

Although the opening date for opening petitions was more than a week ago, Village Clerk Roy L. Murrie announced this morning that political activity within the corporate limits of Antioch is in a state of suspended animation. Final date for filing is Tuesday, March 16.

It is believed that Mayor George B. Bartlett will head a ticket of all incumbents in a bid for re-election to the village administrative offices. Following this belief, Village Clerk Murrie will be in the race for re-election as will Trustees James Stearns, E. O. Hawkins, J. B. Drom, Walter I. Scott, Robert J. Wilton and Laurel D. Powles.

Choose Treasurer, Magistrate
Offices to be filled by the election of a new officer are those of village treasurer and police magistrate. Treasurer Clarence B. Shultis must bow out of the office as treasurers by law cannot succeed themselves to office. With the resignation of Police Magistrate Joseph C. James who was appointed justice of the peace and is a candidate for election in the township election April 6, the magistrate's post is wide open. As has been the custom in the past, a caucus of the Citizen's party is expected to be held within the next two weeks to pick nominees for the village slate headed by Mayor Bartlett and the incumbents.

Served 12 Years
Mayor Bartlett, should he choose to run, will be seeking his seventh consecutive term as head man of the village. Clerk Murrie was the chief vote-getter at the last village election with 494 ballots in his favor. Bartlett was returned to office over Arthur Maplethorpe, the Independent candidate by 95 votes. Trustee Scott, running on the Independent ticket, was the only candidate from that party to be elected two years ago.

County Holstein Breeders Elect New Officials

Herman Dunker was elected president of the Lake County Holstein club at the annual meeting held in Grayslake Friday which was featured with an address by Professor H. R. Rhode of the University of Illinois.

Other officers chosen are: George Leikani, vice-president; C. W. Wray, secretary; Frank Wirtz, treasurer; and directors, N. G. Coltrin, E. E. Elsbury and Henry Wegener. It was voted to stage the annual Back and White round-up on June 19.

Professor Rhode outlined a method of proving sires through co-operative efforts of a group of breeders and then keeping the ones proven to excel in use for their life-time. The most satisfactory arrangement, he said, is where five breeders will own five bulls together. Each year every sire is transferred to a different herd until his ability is established.

He pointed out that last year in Illinois 119 sires of all breeds were studied as to ability to transmit production, 65 being found to lower production and 54 to increase it.

Dr. Preston Bradley to Address Dairymen

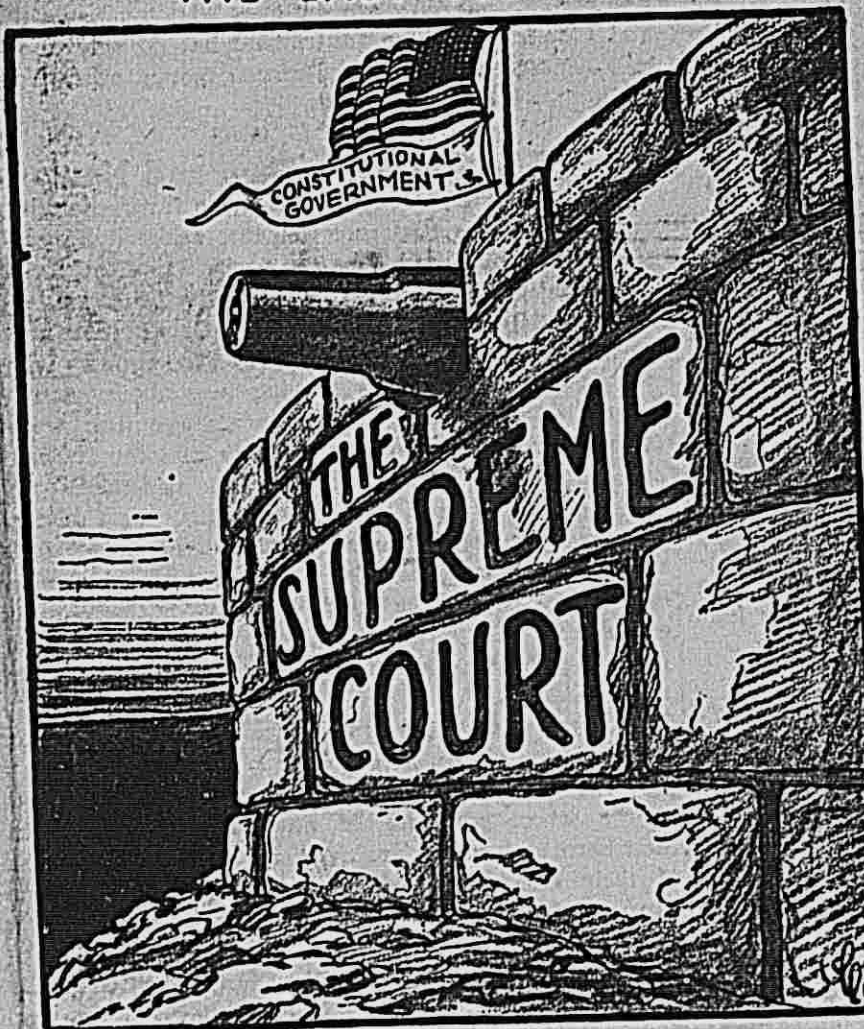

Dr. Preston Bradley, nationally prominent Chicago pastor for the past twenty-five years, will be the featured speaker at the Pure Milk Association's annual meeting in Chicago on March 9th, it was revealed by Association officials.

While his message to Pure Milk Association Members will not be in the nature of a sermon, Dr. Bradley is a most successful pastor. He has an average attendance of 1500 every Sunday in his church, with the service being broadcast by WJJD.

Hurt in Crash

James Story, 49, of Lake Villa sustained bruises on the forehead and cuts on the nose Saturday afternoon after the car he was driving and another machine driven by Robert Lang, 26, of Waukegan were in collision at Ninth and Adams sts., Waukegan. Both cars were badly damaged and Story was treated at the Jane Dowd Emergency hospital. Long was arrested for speeding.

THE LAST FORTRESS

CACHE ZION SAFE AT CHANNEL LAKE

In an out-of-the-way place near Channel Lake, deputies from Sheriff L. A. Doolittle's office found the safe stolen a week ago from Zion Dairy.

The sheriff's men discovered the safe Sunday and returned it to Chief of Police Alven Ruesch of Zion Monday. No traces of fingerprints could be found on it as the rain Saturday is believed to have washed them off. The creamery lost more than $400 in cash, it is reported by Peter G. Lewis, manager of the dairy company.

Mother-Daughter Banquet Attended by Seventy-five

Seventy-five mothers, daughters and visitors were in attendance at the annual Mother and Daughter banquet sponsored by the Home Economics Club at the Antioch Township High school last Thursday evening, where a three course meal was served with nine boys of the Future Farmers Club acting as waiters.

The dining room was beautifully decorated with trimmings which were in keeping with the Washington birthday season. The commercial students and teacher, Miss Lina Brummund, made attractive programs and menu cards for the occasion. A short program was given, with Doris Fitzgerald, president of the club, as toastmistress. Following the program the guests were invited to the auditorium where they saw the play, "Patsy," presented by a group of Home Economics club members. The play was coached by Mrs. Margaret Phillips, the dramatic instructor.

The members of the Club and Mrs. Richey, the sponsor, expressed themselves as being very grateful to the various organizations of the high school who co-operated in helping to make the event a success.

Minnie Helm, 45, Dead of Pneumonia

Mrs. Minnie Helm, 45, a resident of Lake Villa for the past 22 years, died at her home Saturday night. Her death was caused by complications following a six weeks' illness of pneumonia.

Private funeral services were held at the home Tuesday at 1:30 p. m., followed by rites and burial in Graceland cemetery, Chicago.

Mrs. Helm was born in Forest Park on June 12, 1891, and was married in 1907 to George Helm who survives her.

Besides her husband she is survived by two children, a son, Clyde, 24, and a daughter Phyllis, 12, and a sister, Miss Anna Seeck. One daughter, Frances preceded her in death.

St. Peter's Ladies Bring Passion Play to Crystal Screen

"The Great Passion Play," a mighty epic of Christianity, will be presented at the Crystal Theatre on Main st., Wednesday and Thursday, March 3 and 4, under the auspices of the Ladies of St. Peter's Catholic church. The picture brings to life many religious questions and provides a wealth of entertainment.

INTEREST LAGS IN TOWN VOTERS AS FILING ENDS

Only J. P., Constable Campaigns Offer Interest;
Light Vote Looms

With the final filing date set for Tuesday, March 2, the race for election to Antioch township offices looms as a rather peaceful campaign.

Town Clerk C. F. Richards and Assessor Ernest Simons appear to be unopposed in their bid for re-election as no aspirants have yet appeared to oust these veterans from office.

Only three candidates have filed for the offices of justice of the peace, the township records this morning reveal, although four petitions have been taken out.

Sorenson, Brogan or James

In addition to Justices John Brogan and Joseph C. James who have filed for reelection, Raymond E. Sorenson of Park ave., Antioch, is a candidate whose vote-getting ability against the late J. B. Dickson qualifies him as a heavy aspirant for election. Both Justices Brogan and James were appointed to the offices by the county board of supervisors to fill vacancies. Charles H. Keller, former justice of the peace of Lake Villa, has taken out a petition but has not filed for a place on the April 6 ballot.

A wide range of candidates for the two constable posts will greet electors with eight already filed and two more petitions to be heard from. Those who have petitions still at large are Thomas Burnette and Thomas Runyard of Channel Lake.

If constables James A. Webb and Frank Mastne expect to retain their badges, they must defeat Curtiss Hadlich, Walter Chinn, William Belter, John Pacini, Jack Flannagan, and William Murphy. Constable Mastne will be hindered in his active campaign due to service as a member of the March federal grand jury.

No Library Petitions?

No petitions for township library board members have been filed with the town clerk although a complete slate has been circulated through the township with the names of six candidates including three within the corporate limits of Antioch and three in the rural area.

Mrs. Ruth Ward of Channel Lake and Dr. L. John Zimmerman are candidates for a two year term on the petition yet to be filed. Mrs. Marion Rigby and D. H. Minto are slated for four year terms. Mrs. Eleanor Micheli of Bluff Lake and Dr. R. D. Williams are the six year term candidates.

Political observers believe the township election will be a quiet, sociable affair with little action and a light vote. They base their opinions on the fact that competition for the top offices on any ticket generally indicates the intensity of an election. They point to the fact that there is no contest for town clerk and town assessor and predict a very quiet April 6.

Justice Courts to Help Collect Delinquent Taxes

Justices of the peace of the 18 townships in the county met in the county building yesterday with the delinquent tax committee of the board of supervisors to consider methods to be used to collect delinquent personal property taxes.

Nearly 10,000 of the 16,000 personal property owners in the county, listed by assessors of the 18 townships are delinquent from one to nine years, the justices were told.

According to the plan advocated by the delinquent tax committee, a letter is to be sent to each delinquent informing him that suit will be started in justice courts for due taxes. Payments will be accepted for a time before court procedures are started. If after a reasonable time, no effort is made by the delinquents to meet the tax obligations, summonses will be issued through the justice courts.

Most of the delinquents, some supervisors contend, are able to meet the tax obligations, but have either neglected to make the payments or have wilfully passed up paying.

The delinquent tax committee has indicated that it is not going to force collection of delinquent personal taxes from families on poor relief or those on WPA work, but will make every effort to collect from those who are able to pay.

The delinquent tax committee is composed of Supervisors Emmett Moneoy, Charles J. Herschberger and O. J. Boehm.

Antioch Man Elected President of State Medical
Assn. at Springfield

Dr. G. W. Jensen of Antioch was elected president of the Illinois State Veterinary Medical association at a business session held last week in connection with the 55th annual convention of veterinarians in Springfield.

Dr. Jensen, who has been an active member of the association for several years, has served as president of the executive board. He is an assistant state veterinarian. He has served as president of the Antioch Men's Civic club for the past two years.

Fruit School for Lakes Area Group Set for Wednesday

With prospects for higher average fruit prices during the next few seasons, than they have had for the past five years, fruit growers in the Lakes Region will meet in a one-day school to be held in the Farmers Hall, Grayslake, on Wednesday, March 3rd. The program will start at 1:00.

New facts and ideas aimed to help growers make the most of their more favorable outlook will be featured on the program. The school is being held by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois in cooperation with Farm Adviser H. C. Gilkerson.

Fruit prices promise to be higher during the next few years because of the expected increase in consumer buying power, it was explained. On the other hand higher prices may not materialize if citrus fruits should be cheaper. Also an abnormally large crop of any deciduous fruit would lower prices of that fruit.

V. W. Kelley, horticultural extension specialist of the Agricultural College, and L. M. Shropshire, assistant entomologist of the Illinois State Natural History Survey, will both be at the school. The former will discuss various growing and marketing problems, while the latter will report on the insect situation and discuss the 1937 spray program.

A feature of the program will be a pruning demonstration on the farm of Albert J. Stahl, Prairie View, at 10:30 A. M.

Antioch Graders Drop Tourney Tilt; Engage Round Lake for Place

Fox Lake's sharpshooting grade school basketballers eliminated Antioch's graders last night from championship awards in the grade school conference tournament and will meet Grayslake in the Fox Lake gym tomorrow (Friday) night in the title tilt. Antioch is pitted against Round Lake to determine the third place winner.

Fox Lake's first team smothered the Antioch title hopes under a 25 to 16 round of counters while their second team rolled a natural against the Antioch ponies to win 11 to 7.

Public Trough Cooperating Unsound

Advocates of cooperative selling and purchasing customarily point to the small North European countries as examples of the success of the movement.

The record in these countries is good. Cooperatives have been developed in many fields—But it should be emphasized that they have gone ahead because of ability—not through governmental subsidies.

In Sweden, for example, where cooperative business has been developed on a wide scale, the organizations are subject to taxation, and are regarded as are all other businesses. They aren't pets of government.

The better American cooperatives also stand on their own feet—they do not ask subsidies, tax-favoritism or other benefits. But a certain school of cooperative promoters would have them subsidized by the government in order to give cooperative ventures unfair advantages over competing business. This puts the cooperative movement in a bad light, indicating that it cannot succeed on merit.

The American people are in favor of cooperatives, such as the agricultural groups, which pay their own way, take their own chances, and fight their own competitive battles. It is unthinkable, however, that they would favor a policy that would feed cooperatives or any other kind of business at the public trough.

"Soggy Sentimentality"

"In former days it was supposed to be a cardinal virtue in a public man to prevent waste of the public funds," writes Frank Kent. "Today he is treated as something reprehensible. . . . That such a state of affairs can exist without public concern is the best evidence of the degree to which the popular mind has been anesthetized by . . . 'soggy sentimentality.' . . ."

Emergency spending, taxes and the national debt have marched inexorably to new high records. The magnitude of this spending has given the average citizen an entirely false idea of economic values. Where, a generation ago, we regarded a million dollars as a lot of money, we now read about billions with little or no thought. Where once the country was stirred by the rise of the federal debt to the billion mark, we today view a Federal debt of thirty-five billions with equanimity. Where a single Congress that a generation ago appropriated as much as a billion dollars for a year's Federal spending was once denounced for extravagance, we now take a ten-billion dollar congress for granted.

Whether this is due to "soggy sentimentality" or something else, it is obvious that the public mind has become anesthetized—it fails to see its place in the debt and tax picture. It is almost incredible that we should permit the central government to spend two dollars for every dollar taken in—but we do, with the apparent idea that someone besides ourselves will pay. It is equally incredible that the pre-election promises of "economy," of a thousand officeholders should be openly and even proudly violated—but they are.

When will the American people come out of the ether, and realize that they are the ones who must pay the tax and debt load? The government has no way to pay its bills except by taking hard-earned money away from all the people through taxation.

The Answer—Then and Now

The basic argument of those who favor changing the personnel of the Supreme Court to make it fit one economic viewpoint, boils down to a single fundamental issue. The Court, they say, must be reorganized because it is not in tune with the times; because the Constitution prevents much legislation which the people of the country want.

Apparently, there is nothing new about such arguments. More than a hundred years ago they were advanced—and answered so effectively that the answer still stands. Here is what Daniel Webster said then:

"It is hardly too strong to say that the Constitution was made to guard people against the dangers of good intentions, real or pretended. . . . There are men in all ages who mean to exercise power usefully—but who mean to exercise it. They mean to govern well, but they mean to govern. They promise to be kind masters but they mean to be masters."

In more recent years Justice Brandeis, the Court's most famous contemporary liberal, put it this way: "Experience should teach us to be most on guard to protect liberty when purposes of government are beneficent. Men born to freedom are naturally alert to repel invasion of their liberty by evil-minded persons. The greatest dangers of liberty lurk in insidious encroachment by men of zeal, well meaning, but without understanding."

Even 150 years ago when the Constitution was adopted and provision made for the Supreme Court as the umpire upon all laws, the drafters provided the Constitutional Amendment as the means for eternally letting the people determine how much of their liberties they wanted to surrender to a powerful centralized government.

The feeling grows in many quarters that the President may have done himself serious harm by his proposal for reorganizing the judiciary. More and more Democratic Senators and Representatives are saying "No!" to his advocacy of a 15-member Supreme Court.

Beards in Victorian Era

In the Victorian era the martial beard was taboo, and it was said that Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, was breaking the Queen's regulations by remaining faithful to the old fashion while wearing field-marshal's uniform. It was pointed out, however, that, if the prince were to remove his beard, he would be unable to wear naval uniform without likewise offending against regulation.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Mind" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 21.

The Golden Text was, "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding" (Proverbs 3:5).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out! For who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who hath been his counsellor?"

"For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever" (Romans 11:33, 34, 36).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mind is God, and God is not seen by material sense, because Mind is Spirit, which material sense cannot discern" (p. 310).

Building a Forest

Nature uses many clever schemes of checks and balances in its process of building a forest. If there are open spaces in the woods that permit plenty of sunlight to reach the ground young seedlings sprout up in profusion. They furnish protection to one another while small and, as they grow, the weaker ones die out, gradually eliminating all but the harder bushes. Eventually the openings are filled with strong saplings, properly spaced for developing into mature trees. If timber growth becomes too thick and some of the trees fail to get sufficient sunlight they die, leaving more room for the stronger trees to grow. Thus nature maintains a fairly uniform timber growth in the virgin forests.

Area Drained by Amazon

The area drained by the Amazon and its tributaries is more than 2,970,000 square miles, largely untamed tropical forests. The volume of water discharged into the sea annually is probably five times that of the Mississippi. Vessels of small draft can ascend the Amazon proper for more than 3,600 miles.

Anesthesia Invented by Surgeons of Middle Ages

The idea of anesthesia was born in the minds of surgeons in the middle ages. Oddly enough, the first anesthetics used were the fruits of human frailty. In Europe, writes Dr. Thomas M. Beck in the Chicago Tribune, the early surgeons occasionally loaded their patients with huge doses of wine prior to a serious operation. On the other hand, the Mohammedans, to whom the use of alcohol was forbidden, were accustomed to use hashish, a mildly narcotic preparation obtained from Indian hemp. However, these two drugs failed to establish themselves in surgical practice, since the amounts required to produce complete anesthesia brought about certain deleterious effects.

It is true that the use of opium, and later of its active principle, morphine, represented quite an improvement over alcohol or hashish. However, their use in the amounts necessary was accompanied by no little danger. Consequently until about a century ago the surgeon placed his main reliance on several husky assistants whose duty it was to hold the patient on the table.

In 1799 Sir Humphry Davy, the chemist, heated some ammonium nitrate and obtained nitrous oxide, a colorless, odorless gas. He happened to observe that several inhalations of the gas gave him a feeling of exhilaration, and while repeating this experiment on another occasion noticed that it quieted the pain of an aching tooth. He suggested its use in surgery. However, the practical difficulties of administering it to a patient prevented this application at the time.

Mystery in Construction of Christophe's Citadel

A mystery equivalent to the one concerning how the stone was transported to build the pyramids of Egypt is duplicated in the great fortress of Christophe at Cap-Haitien, Haiti, one of the greatest ruins in the world. Built by Christophe, an early Negro president, later declared king, it is not far from where Columbus installed his first garrison and established his first colony. Columbus returned after a year's absence to find both garrison and colony wiped out—massacred by the natives.

Visitors to the ruins of the great fortress wonder how the Haitians ever hauled the huge stones and massive cannon up the steep trail. Many a toiler gave up his life in the construction of the pile. Christophe is reputed to have shot down any man who pronounced his burden too heavy.

The walls of the fortress, which was also a palace, rise from a precipice to a height of 150 feet. There are many tiers of corridors. The lower ones show the cells where prisoners were forced to stand upright for days at a time. The higher corridors show long rows of old naval guns lying askew on their broken-down carriages. At many points are great piles of cannon balls, slowly being eaten away by rust.

Possible to Gain a Day Traveling Around World

It is possible to gain a day when traveling around the world from west to east, notes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. This occurs when the traveler crosses the international date line, which lies in the middle of the Pacific ocean and roughly corresponds to the 180th meridian.

If the traveler sets his watch to the time of the place at which he started, he will note that the sun comes to his meridian, or noon, four minutes earlier than his watch time for every degree passed over, one hour for every 15 degrees, and 24 hours for 360 degrees, the total circuit of the earth. In other words, everyone who completes such a journey gains a day, and to dispose of this superfluous day so as to make his reckoning correspond with that of his starting place, he must call the day on which he gets back (or the day on which he passes some certain point or meridian line) and the next following day of the week and month by the same name and date; thus having two Mondays, for example, together. On the other hand, every person traveling from east to west loses a day in making a complete circuit of the earth, and to correct his calendar must skip one day of some week.

Cold Weather Hints For Motorists

By C. R. Strouse
Director, School of Automobiles,
International Correspondence Schools

NEVER run an engine in which alcohol is used as the anti-freeze agent, after steam starts to issue from the overflow pipe. The steam will cause the radiator solution to run out of the overflow pipe until the radiator is empty. Scored cylinders, burnt pistons, etc., are likely to be the result.

When an automatic shutter, or winter front, fails to open at any temperature, the thermostatic unit is probably defective and should be replaced. When the shutters open, but will not close, the trouble is probably due to a broken closing spring.

Check the generator charging rate. Because of the heavy demand on the storage battery during cold weather, it is often advisable to increase the generator output during the winter months.

Smallest Dwarfs

In the dense forests of Santo, largest island of the New Hebrides, dwells a tribe of dwarfs said to be the smallest in the world. The pygmies of the Congo forest are around 4 feet, but those of Santo, only 3 feet 6 inches, judging by those seen and measured by the white explorers. They fight with tiny arrows, tipped with poison and blown through blow-pipes. They shoot strangers on sight.

Bermuda Aided Washington

America always boasts a warm spot for Bermuda. During the Revolutionary War, Bermuda supplied large stores of powder to Gen. Washington's army. It was this powder, received in an hour of great need, that enabled the Continental army to force the British to evacuate Boston.

AMUSEMENTS

Dietrich-Boyer Co-Star in Desert Romance

Glamorous blonde Marlene Dietrich and dark, romantic Charles Boyer bring one of the most exciting teams in film history to the screen of the Crystal Theatre for three days beginning Saturday, February 27, as stars of David O. Selznick's technicolor production of "The Garden of Allah."

The immortal Robert Hichens' story offers Miss Dietrich her most colorful role to date as the beautiful Domini Enfield who flees to the Algerian desert to begin life anew and there meets the handsome and mysterious Boris Androvsky (Charles Boyer) who is actually a Trappist monk who has fled from the Monastery after taking the eternal vows.

A glorious romance develops under the spell of the desert moon and the story proceeds to a gripping climax and an unexpected denouement.

The most ambitious technicolor film ever produced, this Selznick International Picture was directed by Richard Boleslawski from a screenplay by W. P. Lipscomb and Lynn Riggs.

Basil Rathbone, C. Aubrey Smith, Tilly Dosch, the internationally famous dancer, and Joseph Schildkraut are featured in the supporting cast which also includes John Carradine, Alan Marshal, Lucille Watson and Henry Brandon.

"Goldiggers" Featured at the Antioch Theatre Saturday and Sunday

"Goldiggers of 1937" featuring Dick Powell and the glamorous Joan Blondell, with an all star supporting cast is the attraction at the Antioch Theatre this week-end, Saturday and Sunday with two shows each night at 7 and 9 o'clock.

The world's prize beauty chorus, tantalizing music and the most gorgeous scenery ever put in a picture gives promise of providing very special entertainment at the popular local playhouse on these two nights.

Edinburgh Castle

Edinburgh castle looms upon a rock 270 feet high, precipitous from three sides. The most ancient of the castle buildings is the famous St. Margaret's chapel, which dates from the residence of Malcolm III, and his queen, Margaret, sister of Edgar Atheling, in the 11th century. It was in Edinburgh castle that King James I of England, Scotland and Ireland was born. The apartment is known as Queen Mary's room.

Monastery 1,000 Years Old

Situated between three great mountain peaks, stands the famous monastery of St. Bernard. Founded almost 1,000 years ago by St. Bernard of Menthana, it is a solemn shrine of nobility and antiquity. Within its sacred walls travelers find rest and comfort.

Clog Almanac

A clog almanac was a square piece of wood, brass or bone about eight inches long, which might be either hung in a room or fitted into a walking stick. It was a perpetual almanac, showing the Sundays and other fixed festivals. It was introduced into England by the Danes.

A Meat Cooking Secret From Hawaii

Professional chefs have a rival in actress, who has made a real study of the culinary art.

By Mabel Love

GLENDIA FARRELL, widely known moving picture star who scored such a hit in the current picture "Gold Diggers of 1937," has two hobbies—her eight-year-old son Tommy and cooking. Her hours of keenest pleasure are those she is able to spend with her boy, but she also gets a lot of real pleasure out of the time she spends in her kitchen.

Cooking may seem a rather commonplace pursuit to most people, but cooking isn't commonplace to this charming star, for she makes a real study of the culinary art and strives always to give her dishes that added zest and flavor that lifts them entirely out of the ordinary run. The manner in which she has adopted a secret of Hawaiian cooking in the preparation of roasts and other meats is an illustration.

In basting her roasts she uses one-half canned pineapple juice and one-half water. Deviled steak is one of Miss Farrell's specialties, and those who have eaten deviled steak as she prepares it are unanimous in declaring it to be a culinary achievement of which the most skillful professional chef might well be proud. Here is Miss Farrell's recipe, so that you can see for yourself how fully such praise is deserved.

Deviled Steak

- 1 flank steak (about 2 lbs.)
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 large onion
- 1 teaspoon herb bouquet
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 1/2 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 2 cups Hawaiian pineapple juice

Cut the steak in pieces 2 by 3 inches and roll in flour. Melt the butter in Dutch oven and brown the sliced onion and powdered herbs, remove onion and brown the steak. Add remaining flour and dry seasonings, brown slightly. Pour hot vinegar and pineapple juice over steak, cover closely and simmer for several hours, or until steak is tender. 6 servings.

"Tattoo" From Polynesian

The practice of puncturing the skin and inserting coloring matter to form various designs is very ancient among light-skinned people. The word "Tattoo" comes from the Polynesian, and betrays one-quarter of the globe in which the custom was highly developed. Japanese tattooing formerly was noted for its artistic quality.

Life Struggle UNDER SEA

Pretty Co-Ed Battles a Deadly Six-Foot Barracuda Six Fathoms Below Surface

As she stumbled into a hole, her spear was thrust upward into the mouth of the barracuda, and he immediately made off with the weapon imbedded in his throat.

By WILLIAM HORNE

For I saw that finny goblin flying in the abyss untrod,
And I knew there could be laughter on the hidden face of God—

THUS G. K. Chesterton rhymes about a fish he had seen at sea by night. And there are creatures much queerer than anything imaginable in our land-world. Creatures so bizarre and so unbelievably grotesque that they seem like cosmic jokes tossed off in some idle moment of creation by a Deity that knows how to chuckle grimly.

But not only in the phosphorescent waters of the South Seas do these guardians of the deep haunt tropic waters. As near as the Florida keys we find many species of undersea creatures just as ferocious as any octopus or conger eel or South Sea shark. And, indeed more dangerous to man than either of them—the barracuda.

Meet the Barracuda.

Of all inhabitants of North America's tropical waters this fellow is the worst. He is, we might say, the pike of warm salt waters. But nasty tempered. Deadly.

Since he sometimes reaches the unbelievable length of 8½ feet, we can readily imagine the havoc he would cause should he suddenly choose to run amuck among the hundreds of bathers at a crowded resort.

Strange, but the barracuda of the Pacific coast is not nearly so voracious or so pugnacious as the Florida species. Nor does he grow so large. The latter is indeed a fearful antagonist when encountered, and more than one instance has been recorded when fishermen, bathers and divers have lost their lives to these bloodthirsty killers.

Among the Florida keys and on up the coast past Miami it has become quite a fad to study marine life with the aid of portable, compact diving apparatus.

School for Divers.

Scientists and students of marine life have organized special classes for the purpose.

Professor Charles Farris has such a school at Miami. He is equipped with a dozen or more lightweight diving apparatuses and a sixteen-foot launch. Fifteen coeds are enrolled on his books for a course of six months. This course consists of two submersions weekly for each student, the classes divided seven in one and eight in the other.

So far there have been none to suffer as victims of accidents excepting a student by the name of Myrlin Defore, whose home is in Cincinnati. Miss Defore, who was spending some months in Miami with an aunt, enrolled in the marine school for a course in undersea study.

"It was a lark," she declared, "as well as educational. That is, it was a lark until that day the barracuda attacked me." And here's how it happened.

It was 10 o'clock in the morning. The class was visiting just off Key West to study some new plant life that had been discovered there. Not a cloud marred Florida's sky, and the rays of the morning sun shone perfectly through the crystal-clear waters. An ideal day for under-water observations.

Down Into the Deep.

Miss Defore was a few minutes late getting into her diving gear. Professor Farris had already gone overboard with his brood of seven young women to the classroom on the ocean's floor six fathoms beneath the launch when the tardy student donned her equipment and stepped boldly down the rope ladder that dangled in the water from the low rail.

Her equipment merely consisted of a one-piece bathing suit, a pair of leaded-sole tennis slippers, a lightweight diving helmet, a sheathed knife fastened onto a light web belt and a pointed bamboo spear five feet long.

Miss Defore stepped down the ladder as the tender aboard the launch began pumping oxygen into her helmet. The surface closed about the tiny windows on her headgear and she was lowered to the bottom.

"I could easily see for twenty or thirty feet in either direction, for the water was exceptionally clear," she says, "and I was instantly infatuated by the myriad colors of plant life all about me. Far to the left I could see Professor Farris and the group of girls. They were grouped about something or other, and I couldn't tell if they had discovered me or not.

Taken by Surprise.

"I was let slowly on down, and suddenly felt my feet touch bottom. There was a very little current to tug at me, and I had no trouble in making my way toward the class. I started in their direction, carefully picking my way among the jutting plants that seemed to sway and nod gently as I passed; through the thick sea weed that grew in abundance, and past clumps of beautiful coral-like formations and patches of living sponge.

"Once a beautiful sea snake wriggled slowly toward me. Curiosity, I suppose. I drew back in alarm for I've never liked snakes of any kind, out of water or in the water.

"It was just as I now turned and started to resume my way toward Professor Farris that I first had a warning of the nearness of danger. A dark, streaking shadow flashed near me. I could feel the tug of water against me by the movement of something. I turned to look behind me, and I think I screamed at what I saw.

"It was a six-foot barracuda, and when I first saw it the thing was just passing me like a long, black, swiftly moving shadow.

"I was terror-stricken, trying to move fast and couldn't. Like a hideous dream, trying to run from a goblin with a pair of anvils for shoes that dragged my feet back. That's the way water holds you back under the surface, even at a shallow distance down, and I was at six fathoms, which is thirty-six feet, remember.

Finds Fish Are Biting.

"I never did fully regain my feet after I stumbled in a big hole before the barracuda attacked me again. I was half leaning on my spear, point upward, when I chanced to glance back and up through my helmet port.

"Two rows of sharp, jagged teeth in an open mouth ten inches across, and coming right toward me. I don't remember raising my spear. All I do remember clearly is that within a moment after I saw the thing coming, it was there almost at my face. I felt the spear shaft jerked from my hands, and again I stumbled into the hole from which I hadn't fully escaped.

"I fell back slowly, like a man in a slow-motion movie, and that barracuda was as swift as lightning compared to my movements. Before I felt the stubble of growth at my back as I sank down on bottom, the thing was making off in the other direction, turning over and over, and the shaft of my spear was sticking out from its mouth. In some manner I must have raised my spear unconsciously as it attacked, and I guess the open mouth was so big I couldn't miss it with the spear point. It had dived right onto the point and rammed it down its throat. That was a lucky jab for me.

"As far as I could see it writhed in agony, the bamboo shaft sticking from its mouth. And blood streaked behind it and clouded the water.

"Next thing I knew Professor Farris was leaning over me and helping me to my feet. He signaled with the line to haul us up and motioned to the rest of the girls to follow. Classes were through for the day. And for every other day, so far as I'm concerned, I'll get mine from books, hereafter."

The Origin of Khaki

Khaki, which has almost become the universal color of all armies, means "dust" in Persian. Certain irregular units of the Indian army used to be dressed in this cloth because it was cheap and easily obtainable, says the London Daily Mail. During the Indian Mutiny several British regiments took to wearing it—it was obviously far more practical than the heavy scarlet serge tunic. Many regiments soaked their cotton drill tunics in tea, which stained them more or less to a khaki shade.

Beetle Has Headlights

In the West Indies and Central America there is a large click beetle which has on the forepart of its body two large luminous spots giving out so brilliant a light that it is called in some places the "automobile bug."

NEW SPRING PRINTS
IN FANCY PATTERNSIs Fashion's Advance Message for Next Season.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

For that first spring print to go under the heavy coat, later to emerge in all its glory into the glad-some air of a warm spring day, fashion's message is to choose a dark background with gay figures. A characteristic of the new patterns is their wide spacing and their flamboyant colors. The daisy print is especially smart.

Splashed black and white prints are good style. Interest also centers about prints in gray and in beige. Then there are the new satin prints which are smart for both day and evening.

There is a tendency to combine print with plain. Charming new spring dresses are of black crepe with perhaps a blouse of gay print topped with a youthful black bolero. An inset of the print appears in the skirt and a gypsy sash of the print completes the effect. Then, too, the redingote fashion is being repeated in advance showings. These also exploit the idea of print with plain.

You'll love the new little frocks that have short sleeves and a flatter soft neckline, the same fashioned of a daisy print on black or navy. Wearing 'em now under fur coats!

AN ADVANCE PRINT
By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Splashing dashing color and plenty of it with bold wide-spaced patterns is the promise for the new prints. What's more, fashion is beginning early to exploit prints. Wear 'em now under your fur coat and you are one of the fortunates that go south to spend the winter, of course you will be wanting prints and prints and then some. Gay with butterfly and beetle wings is the lovely frock in the picture. It is done in the modern manner of a lovely cotton that is sanforized-shrunk to guard against unwelcome shrinkage. Every woman needs several dresses of this smart tailored type, whether she ventures forth on a cruise ship or stays at home by her own hearthstone. Just the needed bright touch under the fur coat for town wear!

Glittering Sequins Flash
on the Up-to-Date Frocks

Glittering sequins are a shining success in the fashion parade. A charming singer wears an exquisite frock, a tightly-fitted model, made entirely of vivid blue sequins. A frock of black sequins, also on fitted lines, has back interest achieved by double shoulder straps and a deep square décolletage. In front, the neckline is a deep, narrow V. A simple, black crepe dinner frock becomes dressy with the aid of a sequin jacket, bolero or cape. A Juliet cap of sequins with bag to match are nice, too. Of course, care should be exercised when choosing and using palleted things because the effect may be anything but attractive.

FLASHES FROM PARIS

Boleros go Tyrolean, Spanish and Mexican.

Natural beige tones vie with gray for spring.

A veil for every hat is Paris milliners' decree.

Enthusiasm is shown for the new printed laces.

Sashes with a gypsy strain brighten many a black frock.

The newly featured Rubens colors stress rich reds and blues.

Couturiers advocate very "dressed up" types for afternoon.

Fabric Alliances

Among the newest style combinations of the dull and shiny are bright silky furs with dull short-piled rayon velvets, and the dull acetate crepes and woolsens with bright velvets. Reversible satins with contrasting dull and shiny faces are also important.

Style-Correct 'Comfy' Snow Clothes

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IF YOU would be graceful, "lady of the snows," you must be comfortable as well as fashion-wise. Warm and cozy but light as a feather, the new lightweight woollens are the big news in winter sportswear this season together with a decided vogue for gay Tyrolean "picture" costumes.

Wool gabardine, wool covert cloth, snow cloth and the finely knitted snow-tested woollens are safe and happy choices, for they keep the wind at bay and are snow-shedding and waterproof. Ideal for tailoring, they keep their lines and fit under the most strenuous circumstances. Be sure that your winter sports clothes are all wool, because this is the only way to be certain of adequate warmth without an ounce of extra weight to impede action. Two pair of wool socks, one short and one long enough to turn back over the tops of your ski shoes, also wool cap, scarf and gloves are advisable from a purely common sense standpoint. From a style basis these details give opportunity to dramatize every ski and skate suit, so choose the smartest dashing items you can find—most especially of Tyrolean, Norwegian and Dalmatian influence in colors and embroideries.

The smiling snow enthusiast to the left in the picture is perfectly clad from both a comfort and style viewpoint. This smiling queen of wintry realms is sporting with pride a new spectator coat of weather-resistant wool, soft and fleecy as a warm woolen blanket. Swagger in cut with neck and comfortably full sleeves, it is buttoned smartly up the front in bright gold. A striking blanket stripe bands the sleeves and the bottom of the coat, also making the distinctive yoke set in for broad shouldered effect.

Picturesquely Tyrolean in feeling is the "suspender" skating costume centered in the group. A cable knit sweater, in fanciful stitch, with flatter high neck is in soft white wool with matching toboggan-type cap, mittens and socks. Black wool gabardine fares in a widely pleated skating skirt and is, caught at the snugly fitting waistline by decorative woolen suspenders done in colorful and authentic Tyrolean design.

To the right a classically tailored Austrian type ski suit is shown. It has a stunning, expertly tailored, double breasted gray wool gabardine jacket. Back-belted and snugly buckled, it stays nicely in place over high-built trousers in smooth suede-like black wool. A becoming gabardine soft-crowned cap fits well down on the head.

It is not only that modern snow clothes present an exciting variety of styles, but they are built on professionally correct lines. Current collections include any number of classically tailored types with simple mannish effect. Styled in dark monotone shades they depend on bright accessories for color accent. Then there are the feminine outfits with emphasis on combinations of fabric and colors together with cunningly devised details.

To pink-checked winter sports fans now dotting ski trails and snowy hills all over the countryside, crowding skating rinks or the old mill pond, it is of the utmost importance that sports clothes be snow-worthy and completely adequate. Look to it that your snow clothes be warm and wind-resistant. Be sure, too, that they are freely cut for plenty of action. Beware of gaps. Let sock upon sock, scarf and sweater added to sturdy costume, dependable side fasteners and other strong and stout gadgets make you feel "sure" even should you find yourself head-first in a snow drift.

VEILS FOR SPRING,
MILLINERY EDICT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Paris milliners are saying for spring "a veil with every hat." And wait until you see the veils! Of course you may choose the modest little eye-screening affairs if you wish and they really are practical and will maintain their vogue the season through. However, they do not tell the whole story of veils, for in the new varieties there are most dramatic veils, some almost shoulder depth. Many tiny hats, especially the pill-box type, are individualized with clever veils, the wide mesh effects being especially good. The newer French veils also favor scrawly thread embroideries tracing fanciful patternings.

Lowered Necklines Will

Be Welcomed by Many

Those among women of fashion that have been doing penance in wearing high unflattering necklines just to be stylish will welcome the good news that incoming dresses for spring assure a return to becoming soft lines. No longer will the throat have to be swathed in high drapes and fitted bands. The new trend is to square necks, and pointed ones also. This, together with short youthful sleeves, presents a very promising outlook.

Gay Boutonnieres

A pompon chrysanthemum is the most brilliant of all boutonnieres. Both men and women wear it.

FRINGED WOOLEN

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

In the fabric realm fringed woollen is one of the successful novelties of spectator sports frock in one of the amusing new fringed woollens. It is a deep oxford gray with blue and gray fringed tufts woven right into the fabric. Silver buttons and a wide leather belt are nice outdoor accents.

Four Rules for

Perfect Menu

Casserole dishes belong on the winter menu. They are easily made and there is a wide variety of possibilities. They can be made a one-dish meal. Food stays hot longer in them and none of the savory juices are lost in cooking.

Other hearty healthy winter dishes are boiled or baked ham and potatoes, (don't forget the potatoes in your winter meals) home-baked beans, scalloped potatoes or tomatoes, mince and pumpkin pies. All are appetizing and fit in well in your planning.

Many good cooks follow this rule for a perfect menu:

- (1) Something fluffy, creamy or juicy.
- (2) Something brown or crisp.
- (3) Something savory, spicy or fruity.
- (4) Something rich or sweet. If a little of each of the four kinds are included, your meal will be well balanced and healthful.

Here are a couple of suggested menus:

Breakfast

Orange juice, oatmeal with sugar and cream, toast, omelet, coffee.

Luncheon

Cold sliced meat, macaroni and cheese, bread and butter, peach sauce, cookies, coffee.

Dinner

Noodle soup, roast beef with dumplings, mashed potatoes, gravy, creamed carrots, apple salad, rolls, coffee, pumpkin pie.

Breakfast

Baked apples, cereal with sugar and cream, griddle cakes with maple syrup, coffee.

Luncheon

Split pea soup, crisp crackers, egg salad, graham bread, sliced oranges, cocoa.

Dinner

Tomato soup, meat loaf, scalloped potatoes, cabbage salad, rolls, jelly, coffee, apple pie.

Household Hints

Shells may be easily removed from hard cooked eggs that have been taken from the water in which they were boiled, the shells cracked, eggs dropped into cold water to cool, and then stored in the refrigerator.

A warm milk drink in the middle of the afternoon will give you back the old pep, say students of the matter. Try it, you housewives who are all tired out just about the time dinner must be started.

Gold Most Malleable

Gold is the most malleable of all metals and the minimum thickness to which it can be beaten with patience and skill is not known for certain. A single grain of gold has been beaten into a leaf having an area of seventy-five square inches. Commercial goldleaf ranges in thickness from 200,000 to 250,000 leaves to the inch.

Applesauce Refrigerator
Cake

1 cup applesauce
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon cornstarch
1/4 cup sugar
3 egg yolks
3 tablespoons lemon juice
3 egg whites
Make a custard of the first five ingredients. Add lemon juice and, when partly cool, fold in the beaten whites of the eggs. In a pan place a layer of sponge cake, then a layer of the mixture, then a layer of sponge cake on top. Place in refrigerator until chilled and serve with whipped cream on top.

Curried Fish

2 lbs. fresh cod, halibut or other large fish
4 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
1 small onion, chopped
1/4 cup chopped celery
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups liquid from simmered fish
1/2 to 1 teaspoon curry powder
Salt to taste
2 tablespoons chopped parsley.
Simmer the fish about ten minutes in a small quantity of water in a shallow pan; then drain it, but save the liquor. Meanwhile, melt the butter and cook the green pepper, onion and celery a few minutes; add the flour and the cooled fish liquid with water if necessary to bring the quantity up to two cups. Cook it for three or four minutes, add the seasonings, and stir the mixture constantly. Remove the skin and bones from the cooked fish before it is arranged on a hot platter with a border of fluffy rice. Pour the sauce over the fish and sprinkle the parsley on top.

Early Clocks Were Crude

Clocks, like nearly everything else, had a crude beginning. Man first measured time by shadows cast by the sun. Later the sundial was developed. The Chinese and the Greeks improved on the sundial by inventing a water clock. This consisted of a vase filled with water. The water dripped drop by drop through a small opening in the bottom into a vessel beneath. The side of the vase was marked off in lines, and the height of the water indicated the time. Sand clocks were also used. In these, like the hourglasses, time was measured by running sand. King Alfred the Great is said to have marked time by burning candles marked with rings of color.

Memory of Raleigh

Sir Walter Raleigh, who introduced the potato into Ireland and tobacco into England, is believed never to have set foot on the mainland of North America; but Trinidad may see some of the dents his guns made on Port of Spain. He wiped out most of the early town because the people wouldn't give him water.

Best Wood for Skis
The wood in good skis should be hard, heavy, tough, durable and elastic. Of all the world's trees, American second-growth shag or shellbark white hickory best meets all these requirements, particularly if the tree grew slowly in close grain under adverse conditions of soil and climate. The greatest ski-makers of Norway and Sweden use only American hickory imported from the forests of the Minnesota region.

Indian Youngsters' Game
One of the popular games of the Indian youngsters of Ohio was played with two pieces of freshly peeled bark. These pieces—each between three and four feet long—were laid flat on the ground with the slippery insides together. The children would then run and leap upon the top bark, which would in turn skid out in the same manner that a man's foot does when it comes in contact with a banana peel. The purpose of the game was to try to jump on the bark so that it would not slide off, but as this was seldom accomplished the youthful redskins just counted bruises at the end of the game, and the child with the least number was accorded the championship.

SEQUIOTS FAVORED FOR DISTRICT WIN

Antioch Cagers Open Tourney Play at Wauconda Fri.; Drop Leyden Tilt

Although they bowed to the speedy Leyden cagers, 41 to 24, to mark finis to the current Northwest conference race, Antioch's Sequoits take their initial step in the annual high school basketball classic in Illinois as favorites in the district competition tomorrow (Friday) night at Wauconda.

Winner at Wauconda will advance to the regional tournament at Waukegan next week. Northbrook, Grant, Warren and Wauconda have been assigned to the local tourney with Antioch.

The Sequoits are favored to cop the district title because of wins over Grant, 27 to 26; Warren, 19 to 17; and Wauconda, 29 to 16. Antioch's opponent will be decided by the outcome of the Grant-Northbrook tilt tonight.

Hoop Proves Elusive

A couple of slippery Leyden forwards by the names of Zupko and Nelson, and a center called Long, coupled with inaccurate shooting by Sequoit forwards tells the story of Antioch's defeat at Franklin Park Friday night.

Center Moose Riddell again topped the Sequoit scoring column with nine points while Roger Thill landed in runner-up spot with seven counters. Russ Doolittle's six points and two more by Ted Larson designed Antioch's 24 points.

Leyden's high scorer was Zuperko with 12 points with Nelson and Long close behind with 10 points apiece, indicating that Leyden's defeat of the champion Lake Forest quintet was no fluke. The halftime score was Leyden, 18; Antioch, 11.

Time Nips Rally

The Sequoit ponies, after receiving a 13 to 4 basketball lesson in the first half of their tilt, rallied to within four points of Leyden before losing, 18 to 14. They held the Franklin Parkers to five points in the second half. Antioch points were tallied by George Hawkins and Houghton with four each and two points each by Burke, Groebli and Smith. Center Glidden of Leyden was the victor's pace-setter with 10 counters.

Announce Evening School Topics for Wednesday Class

Evening courses in poultry raising and homemaking at the Antioch Township high school open their seventh session Wednesday night under the direction of C. L. Kutil and Mrs. Ruby Richey. Only three more sessions remain on the program.

Mrs. Richey will discuss "Foods and Their Relation to Health," at her next meeting of the homemaking class and Kutil will instruct the poultry group on "Sanitation, Disease and Parasites."

The two instructors explain that it is not too late to attend the remaining sessions because each week a distinct phase of the subject is completely covered.

Mob at Jackson Inauguration

Hunters of Kentucky, Indian fighters of Tennessee, and sturdy frontiersmen from the northwest mingled with the cultured dwellers of the Atlantic slope at Andrew Jackson's inauguration. On their arrival at the White House the crowd clamored for refreshments and soon drained the barrels of punch which had been prepared, in drinking to the health of the new President. A great deal of china and glassware was broken and the East room was filled with the noisy mob. The aristocratic old federalists saw to their disgust men whose boots were covered with the red mud of the unpaved streets standing on the damask-covered chairs to get a sight of the President of their choice.

No Latitude, Longitude Point

The no-latitude, no-longitude point on the earth is the point where the meridian of Greenwich crosses the equator. This is in the Gulf of Guinea off the western coast of Africa and many miles from land. The nearest land is the British Gold Coast colony, and its capital, Accra, in 5 degrees 31 minutes north and 0 degrees 12 minutes west, is the nearest town.

trict meet will open at the Waukegan regional against Maine high school of Des Plaines next Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Waukegan Township High school gym. Winner of that game will meet the winner of the Lake Forest-Highland Park game the following night.

Come on, you Sequoits!

Locked in Lonely Cabin With WILD CATAMOUNT

Turpentine Worker in a Primitive Battle with the Fiercest Member of All Cat Family

That backward step came near being fatal to Rufe Jackson, for as he moved, the giant cat launched itself with a scream straight into his face.

By WILLIAM HORNE

THE Okefenokee swamp is a wild, awe-inspiring region. Like a world of its own, it stretches from far up in Georgia down and into the state of Florida, nearly a thousand square miles of wildness and tropical beauty.

Giant saurians abound plentifully in the shallow waters and lie basking on banks of silt throughout the region, and the dim game trails are still the haunts of deer and bear and "timber" wolves, foxes and "coons," possums, otter, beaver and many species of the cat family.

But the meanest of all members of the feline tribe that prowls the fastness of the swamp is the catamount.

He is not so voracious or pugnacious as his close brother, the panther, but he is, nevertheless, a killer, and scarcely a day that passes he fails to take his gruesome toll.

He grows to enormous lengths; Catamounts that measured eight feet from nose to tip of tail and that balanced the scales at 160 pounds have been killed in this swamp.

As a rule the catamount is vicious and quarrelsome, sometimes killing for the sheer love of killing, and although generally very much afraid of man, he has been known to attack without warning and kill a lone native with his savage, ripping claws and terrible teeth.

Catamount Is Bloodthirsty

Many natives of the swamp carry hideous scars in mute testimony of the blood-thirsty nature of this giant killer of the Southland's little-known jungle. Rufe Jackson, a turpentine worker who lives alone in a one-room cabin of cypress slabs well within the swamp limits, probably knows more about the nasty temper and fighting prowess of the Okefenokee catamount than any living native.

He carries deep scars on both upper arms and across his chest, and a livid mark down his cheek from the raking talons of one of the murderous felines, and he recalls vividly the details of the hand-to-hand encounter that came near costing him his life.

Lonely Linemen's Havens

At different points in the swamp the turpentine crews have small, one-room cabins for the convenience of workers when they are caught away from their homes at nightfall.

These "line cabins", as they are called, are equipped merely with a crude bunk, a small wood stove and a few cooking utensils, and when a man knows he will be too far away from his home at dark to conveniently return for the night, he takes with him a small supply of uncooked food and prepares it at the line cabin at the end of the day.

Rufe Jackson was caught several miles from his home one evening at nightfall. He had with him a small supply of bacon, meal and coffee, and with first dark made his way alone to the nearest cabin, half a mile distant.

On his arrival there he found the cabin door open, but this did not surprise him, for men were careless, and he had found the same thing many nights before.

So he crossed the small clearing, taking with him a small tin trough filled with raw resin, applied a match and placed the improvised flambeau just outside the doorway so he would have sufficient light to prepare the evening meal.

Mosquitoes, aroused with first dark, came down in swarms, and this smoking torch served to drive them off.

Face to Face With "Cat."

But he never prepared the evening meal. For he had no more than swung the sack of uncooked food from his shoulders as he crossed the floor of the tiny cabin toward the stove than there came to his ears a low, ominous snarl from the doorway behind him.

He swirled about and peered into the deep shadows where the flickering light failed to touch, but saw nothing. He walked toward the door with the intention of bringing the dancing light inside, but as he neared the open door the growl came again. This time it was deadlier and nearer. He swung the door half shut and looked behind it in the corner of the room.

He froze at what he saw. Scarcely five feet away crouched a long, dark form. Green eyes glowed from the darkness upon his face.

He had no weapon except a keen-edged hunting knife he always carried in his sheath at his belt. His hand sought its hilt, and without taking his eyes from those gleaming orbs behind the door he slowly drew it and stepped backward.

But that backward step came near being fatal to Rufe Jackson, for as he moved the giant cat launched itself with a scream straight up into his face.

Locked With Death

Rufe Jackson screamed, too, and as he did he fell backward hard against the open door. It slammed violently and the crude wooden latch clicked in place and held it shut.

Then the catapulting body crashed full into his chest, and with a cry on his lips he was carried backward to the floor.

He threw up his arms to ward off those clawing talons and raking fangs. The cat's claws sank deep into his forearms and ripped them to the bone.

Madly, savagely he thrashed out with feet and flailing arms, and with low, snarling gasps the big cat raked him mercilessly with terrible claws.

He felt hot blood run down his neck from a long, deep gash across his face, and he felt the needling sharp claws lay his chest wide open. One of his arms encircled the tawny attacker's rippling shoulders, and now he thought for the first time of the keen knife in his clenched, bloody fist.

In desperation he struck out at the heaving side, he felt the point sink deep, he drew it out and with sob on his lips drove it in again and again and again.

Blade Holds Balance

The big cat screamed in agony and raked its rear feet up and down in terrific jerks that would have disemboweled Rufe Jackson had he not swerved his lithe body aside and once again he drove home the long knife.

This time the great claw that had been clutching him like a giant hand on one ripped shoulder jerked away and there came a shrill, trembling, agonizing cry from the open mouth there so close to his face in the dark.

It died away to a gurgling moan and he felt the heavy body go limp and slide to the floor beside him.

For a long time after the cat had died from the final thrust through its savage heart Rufe Jackson lay there gasping for breath and dizzy and sick from the pain and loss of blood.

Finally he managed to crawl to the door, open it and pull himself erect and stagger off through the trees to the house of a friend four miles distant.

Rufe can't remember how he managed those four miles through the thick swamp, but he did. And the surgical skill of his friend, learned during years of life in the great swamp, although crude, saved him from certain death.

He will always carry deep scars of that encounter with one of the swamp's worst denizens.

Scapa Flow
Scapa Flow is a small body of water, an arm of the ocean which lies between the Orkney Islands of Pomona and Hoy, north of Scotland. It is about fourteen miles long and nearly inclosed. Scapa Flow offers a deep, safe harbor and was the operating base of the British grand fleet during the World war. It is also the place where the captured German battleships were sunk.

"Society of Happy Death"
One of the weirdest sights in Cracow, Poland, is the procession of the Society of the Happy Death, a medieval association whose members once a year celebrate their common desire for a pleasant exit from this world by parading from the Franciscan church in black robes decorated with skull and bones.
